

REASONABLE DOUBT

The destruction of the World Trade Center in the fall of 2001 was a key pretext for the “War on Terror” that led to the invasions of Afghanistan and Iraq and to a global rise in world military expenditures

Dr. Niels Harrit, Associate Professor of Chemistry at the University of Copenhagen, will offer a critique of the official account of the destruction of the World Trade Center, focusing on Building 7. Widely published, he is the lead author of a 2009 article on the discovery of nano-thermite (an incendiary and explosive) in the WTC dust. Presentation will be moderated by Richard B. Lee, FRSC, University Professor Emeritus of Anthropology at the University of Toronto.
